

Hoover Reiterates Promise To Secure Aid for Farmers

In Last Formal Speech of Campaign at St. Louis
Nominee Pledges Extra Session.

REVIEWS POINTS OF FORMER SPEECHES

Enthusiastic Welcome
Accorded in Kentucky
and Missouri; Coolidge
Sends Hope of Victory.

BY W. B. RAGSDALE.
Associated Press Staff Writer.

St. Louis, November 2.—(AP)—Herbert Hoover halted tonight on the edge of the great grain belt to lay before the people of the country a plan to set up a new institution of government to aid the farmer.

Expanding the proposal for a federal farm board, which he made early in the campaign, the republican presidential candidate said in an address at the Coliseum that this board would be clothed with full power to cope with each and every one of the multitude of problems that affect agriculture.

The program of his party, he said, provides that the board would have full power to act and be authorized to aid in developing cooperative marketing; clearing houses for agricultural products; adequate warehousing facilities; the elimination of wastes in distribution.

A last minute change in time for opening of his speech forced a general speeding up of his schedule upon his arrival in St. Louis and his automobile raced through the streets at break-neck speed.

Gets Great Welcome

A crowd that had massed about the front of the coliseum started a pell-mell rush for the entrance after his automobile arrived and many members of his party were forced to fight their way through the jam, with police blocking all comers. Allan Hoover was caught in the jam and for several minutes was pushed about.

The entrance of the candidate to the coliseum was the signal for the beginning of a demonstration that rivaled the one he received at Madison Square Garden ten days ago. The crowd cheered for more than ten minutes.

Finally, a band playing "The Star Spangled Banner" brought the voices into the harmony and at its conclusion Henry S. Caulfield, republican candidate for governor of Missouri, attempted to speak but was unable to introduce the nominee. As Hoover approached the microphone, the cheers redoubled in force. Once under way, however, Hoover received close attention.

As he began to draw a distinction between the entrance of the government into commercial business and its constructive action along certain other lines, including agricultural relief, he received new applause.

The crowd voiced hearty approval of his declaration for inland waters which would connect the agricultural northwest with the Gulf of Mexico by the Mississippi river and its lateral and the Atlantic coast via the St. Lawrence river and the Great Lakes.

There were more roars of approval when he declared that he stood for continuance of federal contribution to

ATLANTANS ASKED TO OFFER BLOOD FOR VICTIM OF GAS

An appeal for blood to save the life of Quillian D. Bone, 28, automobile salesman and ex-service man, was made Friday by his friends. Physicians at Grady hospital said that a blood transfusion is the only recourse left.

Volunteers for the transfusion are asked to be at the hospital at 8 o'clock this morning, when tests to match the blood of the patient will be made. Bone was gassed in France, and his present dangerous illness is the result, it was said. He has suffered several hemorrhages, losing a large quantity of blood.

ATLANTA TO VOTE ON $1,000,000 ISSUE FOR GRADY

Council Action Will Place Proposal on Ballots in Election Set for December 5.

Voters of Atlanta will be asked to ratify a proposal to float a $1,000,000 bond issue for improvements at Grady hospital in the general election to be held December 5, according to action of city council Friday afternoon.

Mayor I. N. Ragdale later in the day approved the measure, and thus assured the fact that it will be submitted.

Under the law, a majority of the registered voters must cast ballots in the election and two-thirds of those voting must favor the project in order to authorize issuance of the bonds.

Recommended in Committee. Action of council was predicated on a recommendation of a special councilmanic committee named at a special session of that body Wednesday afternoon.

The committee investigated the feasibility of including other projects in the bond proposal to be submitted to the voters, but after an exhaustive probe decided to offer only the Grady bonds.

In the event the bonds are voted, $100,000 of the fund will be utilized to take advantage of the offer of Jacob Elsas to establish a $300,000 pay ward; another $75,000 will be devoted toward expansion of the Albert Steiner cancer clinic; a psychopathic ward will be provided, and practically every other branch will be enlarged, renovated and reconstructed in order to provide a modern, well equipped and adequate hospital service for the "poor people of Atlanta."

York Submits Report

When Councilman Harry York, of the sixth ward and chairman of the councilmanic committee selected to investigate whether any other projects should be included in the proposal to be submitted, offered the report, it was immediately seconded by Alderman G. Everett Millican, of the tenth ward and chairman of the hospitals and charities committee of council.

The only open opposition to the proposal was voiced by Councilman

RASKOB PRODUCES G. O. P. GUILT PROOF

Document From Moses Attacks Smith Solely on Grounds of His Religious Belief.

New York, November 2.—(AP)—John J. Raskob, democratic national chairman, today gave out copies of what he said was the pamphlet sent by Senator George H. Moses, republican eastern advisory chairman, to Zeb Vance Walser, of Lexington, N. C., with the request that Walser obtain its publication in North Carolina newspapers.

The document released by Mr. Raskob comprised substantially a summary of the arguments used against Governor Smith on religious grounds in the campaign. To this document, Mr. Raskob said, Senator Moses, in an accompanying letter to Mr. Walser, referred as "red hot stuff."

When the copies were distributed at a press conference, democratic leaders were asked what proof they had that this was in fact the document sent by Senator Moses to Mr. Walser. The reply was that, should authenticity of the document be challenged, they would produce it.

MAYOR RAGSDALE URGES ADOPTION OF ZONING LAWS

Championing the proposed state constitutional amendment to make legal city zoning laws, Mayor I. N. Ragdale and R. W. Torras, engineer of the city planning commission, spoke Friday night before a meeting of the Morningside Civic league held in the Morningside Presbyterian church.

The mayor and Mr. Torras both pointed out the advantages of such laws and urged that in Tuesday's balloting the voters of the city endorse the amendment. Atlanta already has passed zoning and planning laws but these ordinances were blocked by appeals to courts.

At the business meeting, presided over by the president, E. Stevens, the league discussed various community park, paving and school improvements.

Murder and Suicide Are Laid to Unrequited Love; Death of Couple Ends Long Series of Court Actions

Above are exclusive photographs of the principals in Friday morning's murder and suicide. At the left is Aurin Bugbee, who shot and killed his wife, Myrtle, in the apartment of Mrs. Cora Heckman, 504 Boulevard avenue, N. E., after several attempts to effect a reconciliation. Mrs. Bugbee is shown at the right with her daughter, Frances Adams, 6, who is attending school in Savannah. Mrs. Heckman, who also was wounded by Bugbee, is in a dangerous condition at the Georgia Baptist hospital.

DEMOCRATS CLAIM 280 SMITH VOTES

Republican Actuaries,
However, Put 293 Electoral Units in Hoover
Camp.

BY SAM W. SMALL.
Special Staff Correspondent.

Washington, November 2.—Four days hence the American electorate, by an unprecedentedly huge poll, will determine whether Smith or Hoover shall enjoy for four years at least what Thomas Jefferson called "the splendid misery" of being president of these United States.

The most singular phenomenon of this unusually involved campaign is the recurrence of the unquestioned optimism at both headquarters. Democratic field marshals assure your correspondent that they are riding easy toward the White House.

Governor Smith will win with daylight between his withers and Hoover's nose. But at republican headquarters here, with Hoover totting his little kit-bag on the train en route for his home in California to personally vote for himself, The Constitution is warned that all the republican sirens are steamed up to sound an overwhelming Hoover victory before midnight of Tuesday.

Democrats Disregard Polls. Manifestly both party high commands cannot be right in their prejudgments. But no one, looking over the field events lately, can be sure as to which is right.

If one puts trust in the polls of the Literary Digest and the Hearst papers he will assume that the Smith-Roosevelt boat is already sunk to the guanoes and will disappear nose-first beneath a ballot tidal wave on Tuesday. The republican managers do not claim that those polls will be actually verified by the final results and the democratic managers know that they do not represent the real conditions in more than a score of the states.

The most expert students who are familiar with campaign phenomena of the past three decades discount all the CHALLENGES KLANSMEN TO SHOW WHERE THEIR OATH Bars Them From Voting for Al Smith.

BY HERMAN D. HANCOCK.
Charges that Hiram Evans, imperial wizard of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, and Nathan Bedford Forrest, grand dragon of the state of Georgia, have betrayed the organization to the republicans and thus prostituted its high ideals and purposes were made at a meeting of Delkib county democrats Friday night while at the same time an audience of Fulton county democrats held a session at the Fulton County High school. Both gatherings were in furtherance of the candidacy of Alfred E. Smith for president.

The rally at which the Klan was brought into the limelight was held at the Brookhaven school, with Dr. Newdigate Owens and several hundred persons attending.

JUDGE COVINGTON ASSAILS AL SMITH

Tells Anti-Smith Forces
He Opposes Him as "Roman Catholic Running in Protestant Country"

Frank admission that he is opposing the candidacy of Governor Alfred E. Smith for president because Smith is "a Roman Catholic running in a Protestant country" was made Friday night by Judge W. A. Covington, of Moultrie, in an address at an "anti-Smith democratic" rally at the auditorium.

Judge Covington, who shared speaking honors with Mrs. Mary Harris Armour, prominent W. C. T. U. worker; Barry Wright, leader of the anti-Smith forces; and Hooper Alexander, editor of "The Democrat," made his attack upon Smith's religion while reciting and indorsing three planks of Billy Sunday's platform against Smith. The other two planks were that Smith "is a dripping wet in a dry country" and that he is "a Tammamnyite in an honest man's country." To these, Judge Covington added one of his own making: "Because Smith is the leading proponent of social equality in a white man's country."

Crowd Enthusiastic.

The crowd, which comfortably filled the orchestra floor of the auditorium, was an enthusiastic one and frequently cheered the speakers. At one time, during an attack upon the papers supporting Al Smith, the crowd yelled a demand that representatives of the local Smith papers be "thrown out."

George P. Whitman, president of the Fulton County anti-Smith club, presided and made the opening address. Whitman claimed that the anti-Smith forces comprise the "only true democracy left in the democratic party."

Judge Covington charged the Smith campaigners with "a deliberate effort to belittle Hoover's service to humanity," and defended Hoover against those who question what he would do as a Quaker, in the event of war if he should be elected president. Covington said that Sergeant Alvin York, hero of the world war, is a Quaker,
and that "the president does not tote
a gun in case of war."

Mrs. Armour predicted that Hoover would be elected.

MRS. W. A. CANDLER SUFFERS SLIGHT PARALYTIC STROKE

Pontotoc, Miss., November 2.—(P) Mrs. Warren A. Candler, wife of Bishop Warren A. Candler, of the Southern Methodist church, suffered a slight stroke of paralysis here today. Physicians tonight said she was resting comfortably. Bishop and Mrs.
Candler are attending the North Mississippi conference of the church here.

Bishop Candler is now in charge of the Baltimore district of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, but always has maintained his residence in Atlanta.

Smith Takes Stump For State Ticket In Brooklyn Speech

COL. J. A. GALLOGLY
WILL JOIN STAFF
OF SON'S COUNSEL

Retired Army Officer,
Who Was Admitted to Bar Here, Is Planning
To Aid Youth.

Colonel James A. Gallogly, retired army officer and lawyer, will assist in the defense of his 18-year-old son, Dick, jointly charged with George Harsh, confessed collegiate thrill slayer, with the murders of S. H. Meeks and Willard Smith, it was revealed
Friday by close friends of the family.

This was learned as the state prepared to call into service one or more of the south's most noted alienists to conduct complete physical and mental examinations of the two youths, both of whom are expected to plead insanity when they face a jury on trial for first degree murder, now tentatively scheduled for November 13.

Living in Miami.
Colonel Gallogly, who was retired from the army immediately after the world war, now is living in Miami, Fla., where he is a member of the bar though not in active practice, intimate associates here said. Just when the boy's father will come to Atlanta to assist his counsel, Reuben R. and Lowry Arnold, in formulating plans for the defense could not be learned.

Colonel Gallogly, as a first lieutenant of the coast artillery, served in Atlanta as head of the local recruiting district from 1912 to 1916. At that time he passed the state bar examination and was permitted to practice in the courts of Georgia. During the war he was transferred to the judge advocate general's division and placed on duty in charge of prosecuting important court martials.

Besides giving personal assistance to his son's cause the father also is reported ready to aid financially in the defense, it is said. While here he is known to have invested heavily in the stock market.

Managers of the academy estimated the seating capacity at 2,200. The stage held several hundred more while several scores were standing in the wings.

Mrs. William H. Good, permanent chairman, opened the meeting a few minutes before 8 o'clock and introduced Herbert H. Lehman, director of finance, to the democratic national committee, and candidate for lieutenant governor, who made an appeal for support of Governor Smith and the entire state ticket.

At 8:15 a shout signalled the arrival of Franklin D. Roosevelt. "Hurrah for the next governor," the crowd cheered outside.

Senator Royal S. Copeland, who is up for reelection, came in a few minutes later and there was more cheering.

Mr. Roosevelt asserted the republicans had "condoned every vile attempt to revive passions which have been dead in our nation since our ancestors burned witches in Salem," and then added:

"Let that be enough to say upon this matter of religion."
Roosevelt Raps Hoover.

Speaking of the capacities of Herbert Hoover, the gubernatorial candidate said that in all his record he never in the past 24 hours had been unable to fill any position comparable in any way to that of the presidency of the United States.

Governor Smith reached the hall at 9:30 p. m. Somewhat at the rear of the stage first heard of his approach and started shouting and waving an entire state ticket.

ZEPPELIN STOWAWAY OFFERED PASSAGE HOME

His Acceptance Will End Any Chance of Being Deported.

Berlin, November 2.—(AP)—Clarance Terhune, the young Zeppelin stowaway, has been offered free passage home on the steamer Republic, sailing November 8, by the United States shipping lines. Terhune's case under other conditions might have been the occasion for intricate diplomatic negotiations, as a strict interpretation of the German immigration laws would have stipulated that the youth be sent back the earliest possible moment over the same route as he came on the next west-bound Zeppelin.

Now that Terhune is safe ashore there is considerable speculation as to just how innocent a stowaway he is, some of the Berlin newspapers are inclined to believe that his going aboard the Zeppelin was a well thought out plan and that he was aided in stowing away in one of the dark corners of the dirigible. A writer in the Lokal Anzeiger, summing up his view of it, says: "For soberminded Europe all that remains of this stowaway is the memory of an American boy."

SAYS GERMAN GIRLS TOO PLUMP.
Fredrichshafen, Germany, November 2.—(AP)—German girls are a bit too plump to suit Clarence Terhune, the 19-year-old American youth, who captured the fancy of many of the frauleins by stowing away on the Graf Zeppelin.

"German girls are nice enough and good looking," he said, "but they are too big for me."

Terhune left today for Stuttgart, where he hopes to obtain a temporary American passport which will enable him to proceed to Paris and catch the first boat for America. He said his plans in America were still unsettled. He said he did not know until a few hours before the airship's departure that he would go on it.

Mrs. Clara Adams, of Tannersville, Pa., the only woman to make the trip eastward, left unobtrusively today for Lindau on Lake Constance after declining to be interviewed.

The three United States naval officers who made the flight, Commander M. R. Pierce, Lieutenant Thomas G. W. Settle and Lieutenant Charles Edward Bauch, stated that they had pledged themselves in writing not to say anything about the trip.

Captain Hans C. Flemming, second officer of the Graf Zeppelin, said that he, too, was under orders not to speak about the trip.

When asked about Lakehurst, N. J., Captain Flemming said it was beautifully located, but that the hangar was badly placed in that it was continually exposed to side winds. He also considered it was lying too high for an ideal airframe.

KEYES DECLARES BRIBERY CHARGE IS ONLY FRAME

Los Angeles, November 2.—(AP)—While a group of attorneys conferred today on the legal procedure to be used on November 8, when District Attorney Asa Keyes and seven others charged with bribery appear in court for arraignment, officers were searching for three of the accused men who promised to surrender this morning, but failed to do so.

The five men who have surrendered are Keyes, E. H. and Jack Rosenberg, brokers; A. I. Lasker, former head of the Lasker Finance company, and Jacob Berman, so-called "financial wizard" of the Julian Petroleum corporation. It was the allegedly fraudulent operations of this corporation which entangled in the indictments. Those missing are Charles Reimer, former investigator for the district attorney's office; Ben Getzoff, accused "go between" tailor and his son, David. It is alleged that Keyes figured in bribes totaling $140,000 paid to effect the release of the defendants in the Julian oil promotion case. It is charged that Getzoff's tailor shop was the place where the money changed hands and two former employees of Getzoff told of having seen Keyes receive money there. Keyes and the other accused denied the charges and the district attorney said it was a frame up by a former employee of his office.

CARROLL TO RUN AS INDEPENDENT IN DEKALB RACE

Decatur, Ga., November 2.—(Special).—R. E. Carroll, former superintendent of the DeKalb county school system, will be a candidate for election again in the general election to be held Wednesday, it was announced today.

Mr. Carroll and his campaign manager, W. H. Venable, of Stone Mountain, charge that the DeKalb county executive committee left his name off the ballot in the primary held several months ago although he had expressed a desire to enter the race subject to the terms of the primary. They imply that the move was intended to force him into the general election and thus prevent him from running before the people in the primary as he wished to do.

The Carroll committee is circulating every voter in the county, explaining the fact that the 12 of the 18 members of the executive committee signed a petition asking that it be placed on the ballot and also after J. C. Estes, chairman of the committee, directed A. R. Almond, acting secretary, to accept the entrance fee and place his name on the ballot.

"I have been forced through the manipulations of the committee, thus to enter the lists in the November election to defend myself against the connivance of those who opposed me," Mr. Carroll said.

2 MEN LOSE LIVES AS GARAGE BLAZE BURNS 200 CARS

New York, November 2.—(AP)—The bodies of two unidentified men were found in the ruins of an east side garage that was swept by fire early today. The bodies were discovered under two of the 200 automobiles that were destroyed.

The blaze was in one of the most thickly congested districts in the lower part of the city and 2,000 men and women, many in night clothes, were routed from their homes.

BAUMES LAW URGED AS CRIME DETERRENT

Grand Jury Asks Life Penalty for Burglaries at Night.

Recommendations that Georgia adopt the Baumes law as it exists in New York and other states, making mandatory life imprisonment upon the fourth felony conviction, that robbery and burglary at night be punished by life imprisonment, that a new jail be built at Fulton county, and that automobile drivers be licensed and made to provide liability insurance, featured general presentations of the October-September term grand jury which were returned Friday.

The grand jurors were dismissed by Judge John D. Humphries, and the new grand jury, for the November-December term, will be sworn in Monday morning.

New Sanatorium Urged.
Other recommendations of the grand jury were for creation of a separate school for mentally defective children, replacement of the present Chattahoochee bridge at Bolton on the Marietta road with a modern and wider structure, construction of a new sanatorium at Battle Hill, transportation of prisoners from the tower to the county court house in patrol trucks, and abolition of indefinite sentences as well as fixing of punishment by the trial jury.

The retiring grand jury concurred with the March and May term juries in recommending that the Baumes law be enacted in Georgia, so that a fourth felony conviction would mean a life sentence. Establishment of a central bureau for identification and histories of those convicted, and the prompt trial together of persons indicted for the same offense were urged by the grand jury in pointing out that the Baumes law has been "wonderfully effective in reducing crime and in driving criminals from the border of states where it is operation."

Robbery, owing to the frequency with which it is accompanied by acts of violence and burglary, because of the frequency with which dwelling houses are robbed by armed desperadoes in the night, should be made punishable by life imprisonment.

shable by life imprisonment, the grand jury urged.

Indeterminate Sentences.
Abolition of the law which imposes on the trial jury the duty of imposing sentence, was urged by the jury in pointing out that while uniformity of punishment for the same crime was the object of the laws, the personnel of juries changes each week and different juries entertain such diverse opinions as to what would be sufficient and adequate that the object has never been obtained. The juries are hampered in obtaining a knowledge of the defendant's reputation and past criminal record by the rules of evidence, while the trial judge, before imposing sentence, might inquire into these matters, the jury shrank.

The grand jury expressed itself as impressed by the number of concrete bridges which have replaced wooden structures, and recommended that all remaining wooden bridges be replaced with concrete as soon as possible.

Repair of Powers Ferry road and Roswell road west, as well as Redwine and Hogan roads before the winter rains set in was urged. The jury recommended that the wood bridge on Moore's Mill road, over the Seaboard Air Line railroad, be replaced with concrete, as the present bridge was described as being in an extremely dangerous condition.

New Bridge Is Urged.
In urging a new bridge over the Chattahoochee, the grand jury pointed out that traffic has increased enormously since the present structure was built 20 or 25 years ago, and that the bridge is dangerously narrow, and is so designed that it is almost impossible to keep a floor on it.

That plans be devised to extend West Peachtree street north across the Southern railroad to Huntington road was urged by the jury, which pointed out that severe congestion exists in the Brookwood "bottle-neck."

Commending the policy of consolidating as far as possible smaller schools with larger units where facilities and equipment are better, the grand jury recommended that all of the old wood school houses in the city be replaced by fire-proof brick buildings as fast as finances permit.

The jury was "particularly impressed with the magnitude and scope of the high schools, and was pleased that the schools are so well equipped as to give education as to the use of the hands as well as the heads."

Jail Repairs Urged.
If a new and modern jail is not available, the present tower should be thoroughly overhauled. The grand jury recommended a "dehousing process" for newly arrived prisoners, as many of the prisoners at the jail complained that they are being "eaten alive" by body lice. The jury also urged that sufficient labor be placed at the tower from the convict camps so that the windows and skylights may be kept clean, and the jail be kept clean and sanitary.

At present prisoners are chained together and marched to the court house each morning. The grand jury recommended that they be transported in motor trucks to avoid "dehumanization and degradation."

Enlargement of the convict camp general hospital at Bellwood was included in the recommendations.

HOLLAND JUDKINS TO DIRECT BOWMAN CHAIN OF HOTELS

Holland B. Judkins, former vice president and managing director of the Atlanta Biltmore hotel, has been appointed managing director of the Bowman Management, Inc., new chain of hotels which will number 11 when completed, according to announcement Friday from New York.

The organization which Mr. Judkins will direct comprises five hotels already erected, and plans for erection of six more at a cost of $11,000,000. The five hotels already constructed represent an investment of $8,500,000 and will be ready for the traveling public early in 1929, the announcement says.

Mr. Judkins, who, as manager of the Atlanta Biltmore, lived here, has many friends in the city. He has been with the John McEntee Bowman hotel interests for more than 14 years.

DEMOCRATS PLAN TO RALLY MONDAY AT COLLEGE PARK

A political rally will be held in the city hall at College Park at 7:30 o'clock Monday night by the Fulton County Democratic club, it was announced Friday.

Speakers at the meeting will include Lawrence S. Camp, of Fairburn; William Schley Howard, of Edwin S. Johnson and Miss Bessie Kempton.

SUNDAY RECITAL
Dr. Sheldon, City Organist, Prepares Program.

The regular Sunday afternoon organ recital of Dr. Charles A. Sheldon, Jr., city organist, will be given at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the city auditorium. An interesting program has been arranged, it is announced.

Showers Today Are Scheduled; Freeze Sunday

Showers Saturday are expected to precede the first cold snap this fall, according to the prediction of C. F. von Herrmann, head of the local U. S. weather bureau, who says that a minimum temperature of 32 is possible either tonight or Sunday. The first heavy frost, however, probably will be delayed until Monday, he stated.

The thermometer Friday ranged from a minimum of 51 up to 66 at noon and 68 at 3 o'clock, but the trend will be downward from today on, Mr. von Herrmann warned.

ed, since there is scheduled to be too much wind for a frost Sunday. This would put it on November 5, two days ahead of the average date for the first heavy frost of the season.

Australian Fliers Will Hop to Java If Weather Permits

Sidney, New South Wales, November 2.—(AP)—Captain Frank Hurley and Flying Officer Mair, Australian airmen bound for England, arrived at Wyndham, northern territory, at 9:45 a. m. today from Daly Waters. They intend to fly across Timor sea to Java tomorrow if weather conditions permit.

COAST GUARD CUTTER SEARCHES FOR BARGE

Yamacraw, Out of Savannah, Seeks Drifting Peril.

Norfolk, Va., November 2.—(AP)—Handicapped by very bad weather, the coast guard cutter Yamacraw, out of Savannah, was at sea today searching for the barge. A. W. Thompson, abandoned by the American tug Ontario, off the Florida coast in an effort to save herself and make port before her fuel ran out.

The tug last night sent a distress call from a position 100 miles due east of Fernandina, reporting at that time that with exceptionally bad weather she had barely sufficient fuel for one more day. Today the barge has been abandoned, the Ontario heading for shore presumably, although the weather is offering heavy odds against her making port, coast guard officials believe.

The crew of the barge, which was being towed from New Orleans, has probably been taken off by the tug, coast guard officials believe.

CUTTER HAS NOT SIGHTED TUG.
Savannah, Ga., November 2.—(AP)—The coast guard cutter Yamacraw, which left port late yesterday to search for the Ontario, supposed to be running out of fuel, has radioed to Savannah that it has not sighted the tug. The Ontario is towing a barge, laden with phosphate rock, to Wilmington, N. C.

OBOY BREAD

In addition to those who won prizes in the slogan contest

Once you've tasted OBOY BREAD you'll be glad to buy it whether there's a prize involved or not. Atlanta never had a loaf like this before. And the popularity OBOY BREAD has won in a few short weeks proves Atlanta never had a loaf it liked so well.

Especially has OBOY BREAD won the favor of children. We knew it would. That's why we sought the children's interest by giving away balloons. We want to keep that interest. We're going to give away some more balloons. For the more children who know OBOY BREAD the more homes it will go into. And the easier mothers will find it to get their children to eat plenty of bread—the most wholesome and nourishing food they can eat.

It is delicious. It is fresh. It is wholesome. With a flavor that everyone likes. Try OBOY BREAD in your own home.

Senator Willingham Shows Why Democrats Should Support Ticket

Solon of 39th District Paints Graphic Picture of Difference Between Parties.

Marietta, Ga., November 2.—(Special.)—The third day's session of the Georgia state senate, which is holding its annual gathering in this city at the Mount Zion A. M. E. church, was presided over by Bishop William A. Fountain, D. D., Ph. D., Episcopal head of the denomination in Georgia.

The religious services of Friday's morning session were conducted by Dr. R. J. Jefferson, of Marietta; Dr. W. O. P. Sherman, of Savannah, and Dr. J. H. Eate, of South America, with Dr. A. L. Sampson, of Augusta, presiding during the absence of Bishop Fountain, who held his cabinet meeting with the presiding elders of the conference.

Evangelistic services are being held each evening under the direction of Dr. J. T. Wilkerson, and leaders of the conference express satisfaction at the spiritual benefit derived from these meetings.

The morning session was devoted to the completion of reports of the conference. On the state of the church by A. L. Sampson; on Sunday schools by S. R. Dinkins; on deeds, J. T. Leath; on the Allen C. E. League by W. F. Slaughter; on state of the country by L. B. Harris; on missions by E. N. Martin; on education by J. E. Reese.

During Friday's session an address was delivered by the Rev. C. J. Andrews, of Statesboro, and Bishop Fountain also delivered a talk to the ministers on "How to Succeed in Your Charges." The bishop announced that there probably will be many changes in the rank and file of the pastors during this conference. Appointments are to be read at Sunday's session.

The final report of the finance committee regarding the condition of the budget of the conference was made today.

The conference branch missionary society heard the address of the wife of Bishop Fountain, Friday, on the work being done at home and in foreign fields by the society. The bishop's wife is connectional treasurer and general superintendent of the woman's home and foreign missionary work for the state of Georgia.

During Friday's evening session educators of the denomination delivered interesting addresses, among the speakers being the following: President, J. C. Lawrence, Savannah; Dean, A. Singleton, Turner Theological seminary; president, Dr. W. A. Fountain, Morris Brown university; Dr. W. H. Harris, M. D., Athens, treasurer. The meeting was presided over by Bishop Fountain as head of the trustee board and chancellor of the university system of A. M. E. schools. Dr. C. A. Wingfield, state superintendent of Sunday school will install method service in Sunday school work here Sunday.

DR. ELLIS A. FULLER TO ADDRESS LEAGUE OF SECOND BAPTIST

Dr. Ellis A. Fuller, pastor of the First Baptist church, will address the regular meeting of the Business Women's league of the Second Baptist church at 8:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the Sunday school auditorium of the church. It was announced Friday by Mrs. Frederic J. Paxson, president.

Circle E, of which Miss Lena Flosser is chairman, and Mrs. W. A. Dedmon, co-chairman, will be in charge of the meeting and large attendance is indicated. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend.

In addition to Mrs. Paxson, president, officers are Miss Earle Carter, recording secretary; Miss Jessie Campbell, corresponding secretary; Miss Elizabeth G. Shepard, treasurer, and Miss Lucy Zachary, director of publicity. Meetings are held the first Sunday of the month.

SENATOR GEORGE TO SPEAK IN ROME SATURDAY NIGHT

Rome, Ga., November 2.—(Special.)—Senator Walter P. George will address a democratic rally in the interest of the Smith-Robinson ticket Saturday night at the city auditorium. Senator George is coming to Rome at the invitation of the Young Men's Floyd County Democratic club and details of the meeting have not been worked out but it is assured that a large audience will be on hand to hear Georgia's junior senator, who is a great speaker and whose subject for the Rome meeting is a popular one in the county and city.

This is the second democratic rally to be held in Rome proper. Last week Hooper Alexander, of Decatur, spoke in the interest of Hoover-Curtis ticket at an anti-Smith rally.

GAIN OF $14,000,000 SHOWN IN TAX DIGEST

Greatest Increase in Property Valuation Made in Cities, Towns.

Georgia's state tax digest for 1928 shows a gain of $14,000,000 in property valuations over the digest for 1927, according to figures compiled Thursday at the office of General William A. Wright, state comptroller.

The greatest gain in valuation was shown in city and town property, this class gaining $11,000,000 over the previous year. The total valuation for 1928, as shown by the digest, is $1,083,532,347.

One interesting thing about the figures, compiled by W. B. Harrison, chief clerk, is the large increase in poll taxes, the total for this year being $402,023, a gain of $39,875 over last year. This gain is attributed to the great interest shown in the general election.

The revenue from the property tax this year will amount to approximately $5,904,000, according to the estimates made in the office of the comptroller.

TERRELL COUNTY TAX COLLECTOR TO BE REMOVED

J. O. Fussell, tax collector of Terrell county, will be removed by order of the governor following the submission of an opinion rendered by Assistant Attorney General T. R. Greer.

The tax collector admitted discrepancies in his accounts and failed to make proper settlement with the state comptroller but asked that he be allowed to remain in office until his term expires December 31. The assistant attorney general ruled that it is the duty of the governor to declare this office vacant and the governor will act on the recommendation.

Discrepancies in the accounts of the tax collector amount to $10,500, covering a four-year period, but some of these are of a technical nature, it was stated.

Architects Named For New Hapeville Elementary School

Hentz, Adler and Shultz were selected as architects for the new Hapeville elementary school at a meeting of the county board of education. It was announced Friday by Jere A. Wells, Fulton superintendent of schools.

The new school will contain 12 or 14 class rooms and a large auditorium, and will be built at an estimated cost of approximately $50,000 on an eight-acre site on North avenue, Hapeville. The present elementary school building also will be used.

Mr. Wells said. Bids will be asked for early in January. The county board also authorized Preacher and Woman Remain in Jail Pending Label Hearing.

Savannah, Ga., November 2.—(Special.)—Mrs. Ed C. Alumbaugh and Rev. W. F. Larowe, charged with criminal libel in connection with alleged distribution of pamphlets attacking the Knights of Columbus, were granted a continuance today when their case was called for preliminary hearing in police court.

Attorneys for the defense said evidence which they had asked from Washington had not yet arrived, and that it was material to the defense. Defense announced that Gilbert O. Nations, editor of the Protestant World, probably would be here Friday to aid in the defense when the case is called for preliminary hearing.

Mrs. Alumbaugh and the Rev. Larowe were first arrested and fined for violation of a city ordinance governing distribution of pamphlets. They are now serving time in jail on this charge. The criminal libel charge was filed by T. F. Walsh, Savannah attorney and member of the Knights of Columbus, who charged the pair with distribution of printed matter libeling the order.

QUILLIAN'S WILL WARNS CHILDREN AGAINST LENDING

With the exception of several gifts of money to relatives, property of F. A. Quillian, attorney and former city official, who died on October 7, is to be divided equally among his three children, according to the will which has been filed with the Fulton probate office for probate in common form.

Named as executors to serve without bond, the three children are: Mary, Roberta and Fletcher, J. V. Poole, Mr. Quillian's son-in-law, was designated as attorney for the executors. The estate consists of the home at 547 Duncanson street, a number of other dwellings in various parts of the city, a farm in Monroe county, vacant lots in Atlanta, and other property.

The will warns the children against "wildcat" investments, and against lending money to relatives or friends except on good security, as well as advising them to practice economy in all of their dealings.

Bequests included sums given to three brothers, J. T. Henry and Joseph Quillian, and to his grandchildren, Elizabeth and Jimmie Poole, and in addition, money to purchase silver sets for Roberta and Fletcher similar to the one given Mary at her wedding.

Replacement of fire damage at the E. Rivers school. The $1,500 loss is covered by insurance, Mr. Wells said.

Old Veterans of Civil War

TRUMP CAMP, U. C. V., TO CAST VOTE FOR SMITH

Remain Loyal to Southland

LaGrange, Ga., November 2.—(Special.)—Twenty-three old men—all that are left of hundreds of others, who as bright-eyed youths with a song on their lips and a dare in their hearts long years ago marched from Troup county in defense of their beloved Southland—Tuesday will go to the polls and make perhaps their last stand for that land by casting their ballots for the democratic nominees.

These white-haired patriots—latter remnants of a one-time glorious host in gray—have pledged once more their loyalty to the south and its great political sentiment, the democratic party, and in a public statement have appended their shaky signatures to an announcement of their intention "to stand by our old mother until the end comes."

These twenty-three have never surrendered the south's cause, nor the deep love that they have for the land called Dixie. They have lived through the years of bloody struggle. They have survived the intolerable era of the carpet-bagger and have felt the whip hand of a vengeful epoch of reprisal, calmly referred to as reconstruction. In all the years that have passed since the south's cause was buried beneath an avalanche of sheet numerical superiority they have experienced the rule of both the party that held the whip hand in the days of reconstruction and that which rose as a stone wall to ward off the ever-threatening flood of sectional animosity.

And, their thoughts flitting back down the dusty corridors of time, they have made their decision. Their pledge is definite. It follows:

"We, the members of Camp No. 405, United Confederate Veterans, desire to register our names as true and loyal democrats and we shall march to the polls on November 6, though with tired and tottering steps, yet with resolute hearts and firm purpose, to stand by our old mother until the end comes. For more than 60 years she has stood by us in times of need and great peril. She has thrown about us her protecting arms and shielded us from want and protected us from the humiliation and despotism of a party which had no sympathy for us in our poverty and despair, but rather clouted over our humiliation.

"The democratic party came to our assistance in time of our greatest need and has always been our friend, giving pensions to those now surviving and pensions to the widows of our comrades who have passed to the great beyond. How shall we be so ungrateful now, as to stab the old mother who has nurtured and taken care of us for so many years? We appeal to our sons, grandsons, daughters and granddaughters to stand by the party which alone offers us protection and shields us from the humiliation of negro equality.

"We appeal to you in the memory of past associations. We appeal to you in the interest and in consideration of us, the lingering survivors of a past and bloody era in our country's history. We appeal to you in memory of our comrades who have joined the ranks on the other shore. Were it permitted those who have gone to that far-off land to speak to those on earth, voices would come ringing through the skies: 'Sons, daughters, be true and loyal to the old party which was my friend, and which is your friend and your only hope of a happy future.'

JUNIOR MECHANICS NO POLITICAL BODY, STATE HEAD SAYS

Pointing out that the Junior Order of United American Mechanics is not a partisan political organization and that it is in no way connected with politics, O. H. Starnes, state councilor and head of the order in Georgia Friday asked The Constitution to say that the organization is not sponsoring, nor will sponsor, any political meeting of any nature.

"We are not a political organization and neither do we take part in partisan politics. We are not taking part in any meeting," Mr. Starnes said. "The Junior Order of United American Mechanics is misunderstood by some people, who think we are a partisan political organization. We are not. We are strictly American and stand for everything that the flag stands for."

WOMAN INDICTED UNDER PROH L A W ON THREE CHARGES

Mrs. Ada Johnson, 22, who was arrested Wednesday afternoon by county police in a bungalow housing a large "steamer" distilling outfit on Mount Perren road near Pace's Ferry road, and who is at liberty under $2,500 bond, was named in three indictments on prohibition charges returned Friday by the Fulton grand jury.

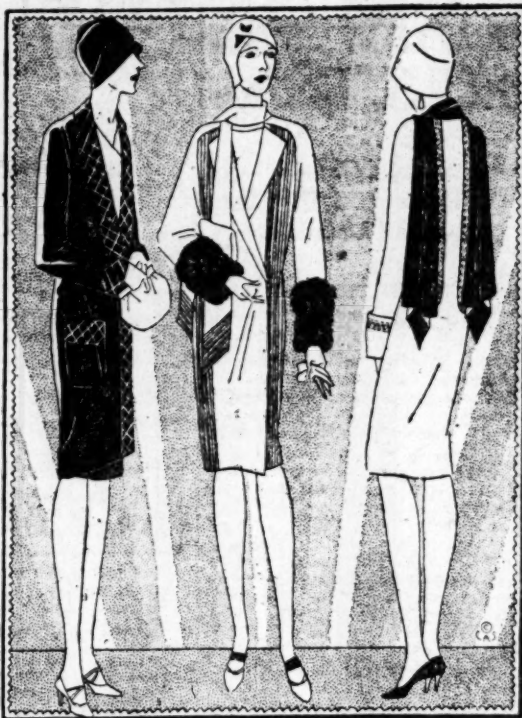

Mrs. Johnson is charged in a felony indictment with manufacturing whisky. In two misdemeanor true bills, she is charged with possessing distilling apparatus, and possessing 20 gallons of whisky.

Perjury indictments were returned against Howard Greer and George Kinard by the grand jury. The true bills allege that Greer and Kinard gave false testimony before the grand jury in regard to a stolen automobile, both Greer and Kinard having stated that Greer bought the machine from a man named James Bennett in Gainesville for $15 cash and the balance in $10 monthly notes. A second true bill against Kinard charges that he gave similar testimony in testifying in superior court in the case.

Japanese Doll Will Be Hostess At Party at High Museum Today

A Japanese lady of distinction, in royal robes, an embroidered kimono and sandals that might have slipped easily among the blossoms of her native land, will be the honor guest at a party this afternoon at 3 o'clock given for children of Atlanta at the High Museum of Art. She has been presented by Japan to the state of Georgia as an ambassador of good will and will make her permanent abode at the High Museum of Art.

Little Miss Eleanor, daughter of Mrs. Clarence Blosser, of Myrtle street, will welcome Miss Nagoya in behalf of the children of Atlanta, who will gather this afternoon to receive this young lady who was herself purchased and equipped by 2,000,000 coins given by Japanese children in the spirit of friendliness to their American contemporaries. There will be little fellows with their own dolls in their arms; larger ones who appreciate the significance of this gathering of good will, and those who are only interested in so novel a party.

Little Miss Nagoya is a Japanese lady of note. Her black hair is impeccable; her robes are regal; she might unfurl a flowered parasol over her shoulder and trip with short, swift steps through a magnificent Japanese home. For this doll of Japan has a trousseau all her own, the kind that each lady of Japan secures before she leaves her own home for that of her husband.

Mr. and Mrs. K. Yoshinuma, Japanese citizens of Atlanta, will greet the young lady in her native tongue. In the attire of Japan Madame Yoshinuma will make the charming Japanese city there was a great celebration of farewell and the mayor wished her luck on her journey to America. In similar manner Mayor I. N. Ragsdale will receive the doll on behalf of the city of Atlanta. Robert L. Foreman, president of the Art association, will welcome her to her permanent home in the museum. Besides Mr. and Mrs. Yoshinuma there will be Mr. Yoshinuma's brother, S. Yoshinuma; two Japanese students of Emory university, and one of the Atlanta Dental college to welcome the young lady. The official hostess, Little Miss Blosser, will then welcome her on behalf of the children of the city.

Autumn Season Inaugurated At Grove Park Inn

Asheville, N. C., November 2.—The autumn season at Grove Park Inn was formally inaugurated by a Cherokee harvest ball, a costume affair which assembled, besides a large representation of Asheville's smart set, the hotel's usual important clientele at this season of northern and western people. An increasingly large number of southerners are also learning how easy it is with good roads to come for a week-end or a few days to view the autumn glory of the mountains, which, with mild weather, are holding their foliage in luxuriance.

Of these last there are from Atlanta James J. Haverty, Miss May Haverty and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Haverty; Mrs. John Raine and Mrs. Edgar Dunlap spent the week here. Mrs. Richard W. Johnston made a brief visit, as did C. V. Rainwater. The distinguished actor, E. H. Sothern, was a guest for a few days.

Outstanding events of the near future—November 12-15—will be the meeting in Asheville of the Southern Medical association when some of the most eminent physicians in the country, with their wives, will be at the inn, and also during November the Junior league ball to honor the debutante members.

DR. ECKENER PLANS TO TAKE ZEPPELIN TO BERLIN MONDAY

Berlin, November 2.—(AP)—The Graf Zeppelin, awaiting an overhaul in its hangar at Friedrichshafen, after its ocean voyage from America, will start for Berlin at 2 o'clock Monday morning if the weather is favorable and the overhauling job is completed. This announcement came today from the Zeppelin's home port. The people of Berlin are determined not to be behind in their homage to the popular hero, Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the dirigible, who with his crew will be the guests of the federal government.

"GRAND OLD LADY" PLANS TO SUPPORT GOV. ALFRED SMITH

Mrs. Rebecca Latimer Felton, of Cartersville, the first and only woman ever to occupy a seat in the United States senate from a sovereign state, supporting actively the candidacy of Governor Alfred E. Smith, and in a telegram to Miss Alice Paul, well-known suffrage leader, reaffirmed her allegiance to the democratic party. Miss Paul wired from Washington: "May we add your name to a list of former suffrage workers who are supporting Hoover and Curtis among other reasons on grounds of their superior stand on equality for women?" To this telegram Mrs. Felton answered: "Having accepted a seat in the United States senate from democratic party more than six years ago, I feel in honor bound to support their confidence. No other woman in the United States has been accorded such honor."

EMORY PROFESSOR DENIES SOLVING CAUSE OF ANEMIA

Dr. J. L. McGhee, head of the department of bio-chemistry at Emory university, issued a statement Friday denying all reports that any group of professors at Emory had created apparatus for diagnosing diseases, or had learned the cause of anemia.

The denial came as a result of an article in the Emory Wheel, weekly student publication, and republished in the press. The contents of the article were to the effect that a set of apparatus was being constructed which the professors believed would lead to solution of the problem as to the cause of diseases, anemia being mentioned as the disease which they were experimenting.

"We do not know what causes anemia, but are honestly trying to find out. But the report of such claims on our part only makes us appear ridiculous or crooked. The first paragraph of the report would lead the reader to suppose that we claim to be able to apply one or two pieces of apparatus in the diagnosis of any disease. That would be a revolutionizing accomplishment!"

Needlework Guild Honored at Tea By Mrs. Broyles

Mrs. Arnold Broyles, honorary president of the Atlanta branch of the Needlework Guild of America, was hostess to the officers, section presidents, directors and other guests at a tea given at her home on Peachtree road last Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Broyles was assisted by her daughter, Susan, Mrs. D. F. Stevenson, president, presided over a short business session. Twelve young girls from Washington seminary were present with their teacher, Miss Anna Sharp, these seminary girls donating a collection of garments each year.

Representatives from many of the 40 social agencies were present, voicing their appreciation of help given by the Needlework Guild. The names of Henrietta Eggleston Memorial hospital, Battle Hill and the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children were added to the list of agencies to be helped this year.

Sheltering Arms sent an appeal for darning and mending to be done. Young Matrons' circle of North Avenue Presbyterian church and representatives from Mrs. Alonzo Richardson's class at St. Mark's Methodist church immediately offered their services. Each week a motecade of members of the Needlework Guild have been visiting the various institutions that receive help in the city to better ascertain their needs.

Garments collected in Atlanta remain in Atlanta to clothe and care for the unfortunate. The giving of two new garments per year, or the equivalent in money, constitutes membership in the Needlework Guild. By taking on Henrietta Eggleston Memorial hospital, Battle Hill and Scottish Rite hospital more garments are needed and Atlanta citizens are asked to call up one of the officers and make contributions. The officers are: President, Mrs. D. F. Stevenson; first vice president, Mrs. Edwin M. Helbig; second vice president, Mrs. W. F. Helbig; third vice president, Mrs. W. H. Moore; fourth vice president, Mrs. A. O. Woodward; secretary, Mrs. S. B. Mitchell; assistant secretary, Mrs. Rebecca Harmon Lindsay; treasurer, Mrs. J. Ross Cheshire; historian, Mrs. W. W. Alexander; publicity chairman, Mrs. E. M. Helbig. The junior auxiliary is under Mrs. Josephus Camp.

The collection of garments will take place the week of December 3, at the home of Mrs. E. B. Mitchell, 1140 Springdale road.

All section presidents are urged to bring in their garments during the first day, Monday, December 3, to assist the officers and special committees in distributing the garments systematically and quickly. Last year 12,000 garments were given to the unfortunate in the city.

Miss Barnett Honors Miss Virginia Howard.

Miss Helen Barnett was hostess at tea Friday, at her home on Sheridan road, in honor of Miss Virginia Howard, a popular bride-elect of November 16.

Receiving with Miss Barnett and Miss Howard was Miss Frances Howard, sister of the bride-elect. Assisting in serving were Miss Frances Lucile Howard, Miss Lena Knox, Mrs. C. B. Howard, Jr., and Miss Florence Perkins. Seventy friends of the hostess and honor guest called during the afternoon.

Christian Women Sponsor Party.

The women of the First Christian church enjoyed a Halloween party in the Sunday school room, Wednesday afternoon. The leader of the program was Mrs. Alfred Stanley. The party took the place of the meeting of the woman's council of the church. Games and stunts featured the unique program.

Y. W. C. A. Offers Swimming Rate To Grammar Schools

The Y. W. C. A. offers a special rate of ten cents a swim to all girls of the Atlanta grammar schools on Saturday mornings from 11 to 1 o'clock and in the afternoon if needed. Miss Lucille Crabtree, director of health education, arranged for the children to have the physical examination, which is required before going in the pool, at the Y Saturday morning, November 3. A physician will be engaged each Saturday morning if the office has been notified that girls are coming to swim and have not been examined. These examinations are free to the children, if they are coming for "dime dips."

This plan to have "dime dips" for the grade school children was heartily endorsed by Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of city schools; Miss Mira Graves, physical director of the grade schools, and Mrs. H. G. Parks, of the Parent-Teacher association. Letters telling of the "dime dip" were sent to the principals of the schools and to date the following have reported interest: Capitol View, Crew Street, English Avenue, Faith, Formwalt, Georgia Avenue, Grant Park, Highland, Home Park, Inman Park, James L. Key, Kirkwood, Luckie Street, Milton Avenue, Moreland, Peoples, Ragdale, State Street, Tenth Street and Williams Street.

Miss Leola Walker, swimming instructor, opened a class in senior life saving Wednesday afternoon, October 31, at 4 o'clock. The class will be a large enrollment, but will be open to others for the next two or three weeks. Fee for lesson is 25 cents or dip ticket.

FLORIDA BANKS CLOSE

State Department Takes Charge of Institutions.

West Palm Beach, Fla., November 2.—(AP)—Closing of two lower Florida east coast banks were officially announced here today.

The Vero Beach Bank and Trust company, of Vero Beach, closed its doors Tuesday morning and now is in the hands of the state bank department.

The bank of Boca Raton at Boca Raton has been closed since October 24, and it also is in the hands of the state bank department, it was announced by H. C. May, cashier. The bank had been operating for about three years.

Consistent withdrawals of deposits during the past few months was given as cause for the closing of the Vero Beach institution by William Atkins, president.

A. B. & A. VALUATION IS HELD 'ARBITRARY'

Three Federal Judges Send Order to I. C. C. for New Hearing.

Valuation of the Atlanta, Birmingham & Coast railroad properties at a figure slightly above $9,000,000 by the interstate commerce commission was held "arbitrary and unlawful" in an order handed down by three federal judges and filed with the clerk of the United States court Friday morning, which set aside the commission's estimate and sent the issue back to that body for further consideration.

The commission had set this valuation on the railroad prior to its acquisition by the Atlantic Coast line. The A. B. & C. railroad company, contending that its properties are worth in the neighborhood of $30,000,000, brought suit against the United States to set aside the $9,000,000 valuation, which had been set as one step in refinancing the road, the former A. B. and A. The order was signed by three judges who constituted a special court to consider the question. They were: R. W. Walker, of Huntsville, Ala., senior judge of this federal circuit; Hon. Ben C. Davis, of New Orleans, La., United States district judge, and S. H. Sibley, of Atlanta, United States district judge.

The order states that the court, after hearing the evidence and the arguments in accordance with an opinion filed at the same time with the order, decrees, "that the equities are with the complainant (A. B. & C. railroad) and that the order of April 9, 1928, complained of, insofar as same fixes the amount at which the complainant is to return its capital stock and its investments in road and equipment, be set aside, and that all persons interested in enforcement of said order and their officers and agents are permanently enjoined from enforcing same."

It concludes by saying that the order shall be sent back to the interstate commerce commission for further hearing.

Atlanta's Champion Father Will Support Governor Al Smith

Al Smith will receive the unanimous support of Lee C. Gentile, Atlanta's "world champion father" and his eleven living children, in his candidacy for the presidency of the United States, Mr. Gentile said Friday. Mr. Gentile said that in addition, he would endeavor to swing all outside votes.

"I don't see how any man living in the south can vote for the republican party," Mr. Gentile said. "The south has always been democratic and it is democratic now. The democratic party saved us from reconstruction days, and it will save us from the evils of racial equality now."

Forum at Church.

Open forum discussion of the question, "Of what value are labor unions to working men?" will take place at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon at St. Matthias Episcopal church (colored). It is announced. A group of five speakers will discuss the question. The public is invited.

Parties May Provide Own Tickets in Non-Australian Ballot Counties.

In counties where the Australian ballot is not used in the general election each party has the right to furnish the election managers with its official ticket and voters can use any of the tickets they desire, according to information obtained at the capital Friday.

The question of what ballot could be used was raised by Thomas H. Crawford, of Blue Ridge, Fannin county, and was referred to authorities of the capital. In the case pointed out by Mr. Crawford a ticket is being circulated in that county by the anti-Smith democratic group which contains the name of Hoover as nominee for president and Curtis for vice president and then switches to the democratic nominees for all state offices and then switches back again to the republican nominees for county offices. If this ticket is furnished the election officials by the representatives of the party group it can be used.

In counties having the Australian ballot system, 51 in number, the official ballot recently approved by Governor L. G. Hardman must be used. This ballot contains, in addition to the democratic ticket, the republican ticket, both having the same nominees for president and for electors, the socialist ticket and the prohibition party ticket. Attorney General George Napier has ruled that the anti-Smith ballots and the republican ballots cast in the Australian ballot counties shall be counted separately but has stated that the totals should go to Hoover and Curtis, the nominees of both these groups.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

RUSTY BARELY ESCAPES
BY THORNTON W. BURGESS

Be margin great or margin small,
Be thankful for escape at all.
—Rusty the Fox Squirrel.

When Rusty the Fox Squirrel parted from his cousin, Happy Jack the Gray Squirrel, over in the Green Forest, he headed straight south. He intended to make a long journey. That is, he intended to make what would be a long journey for a little fellow like him. He intended to go on going until he found a place where food was plentiful. Presently Rusty came to the edge of the Green Forest. Before him stretched the Green Meadows. Rusty didn't like the looks of the Green Meadows. He didn't like the idea of crossing them. You see, while he feels very much at home on the ground, he wants trees very near at hand, and on the Green Meadows there were no trees, save a few widely scattered ones.

"Oh, dear!" said Rusty. "I suppose there's nothing for it but to go ahead. I haven't any wings, so I can't fly. To go around would take too long. He hoped that Rusty Fox and Mrs. Reddy are nowhere around. Well, if I've got to do it, I've got to do it, so he goes!" Away went Rusty the Fox Squirrel bounding along as a Squirrel does. When he started there wasn't an enemy in sight, but he was only about two-thirds across when Reddy Fox came sailing over the Green Meadows. He saw Rusty at once. He saw Rusty long before Rusty saw him. When Rusty did see him, Reddy Fox was coming fast. What should he do? Just ahead of him was an old fence. Some bushes were growing along that old fence. If he could reach those bushes perhaps he could find a place of safety. You should have seen him run then! And you should have seen Reddy Fox! He saw Rusty and he was heading and he meant to catch him before he could get there. The wind whistled through the feathers of his wings as he swooped for Rusty. But Rusty had reached the bushes just in time. They didn't give him a great deal of protection, but they gave him enough. Try as he could, Reddy couldn't catch him. After trying a few times, Reddy flew to the top of a tall tree some distance away. From there he could watch Rusty as he went on his way. Rusty and he doubted if Rusty could see him.

"If I can once get him out on the open meadows again I'll have him!" said Reddy. "Yes, sir, I'll have him. All I need is to get him away from those bushes. And he's got to cross the open meadows to get away. I must be leaving the Green Forest. I have heard say that nuts are scarce this year. That must be it. He's got to look for a place where nuts are more plentiful. Well, perhaps he'll get there and perhaps he won't. He won't if I can help it!" Poor Rusty! He was in a peck of trouble, as the saying is. His eyes were not quite good enough to see Reddy on that distant tree, but he had guessed where Reddy had gone. "He hasn't given me up yet," thought Rusty. "No, sir, he hasn't given me up yet. He's watching somewhere and he'll come swooping down after me as soon as I am far enough away from those bushes. I can't stay here forever. This is no place for a Squirrel, anyway. My, my, what am I going to do? Well, I can stay here as long as he can watch, and I guess that's what I'll have to do. Good-

You should have seen him run then.

"Oh, dear!" said Rusty. "I suppose there's nothing for it but to go ahead. I haven't any wings, so I can't fly. To go around would take too long. He hoped that Rusty Fox and Mrs. Reddy are nowhere around. Well, if I've got to do it, I've got to do it, so he goes!" Away went Rusty the Fox Squirrel bounding along as a Squirrel does. BORAH TELLS BOSTON SOUTH LIKES HOOVER

Boston, Mass., November 2.—(AP)—The confidence of the voter in the capacity and fitness of Herbert Hoover for the presidency was the keynote sounded tonight by Senator William E. Borah in a speech which culminated a huge demonstration by Massachusetts republicans for the Hoover-Curtis ticket.

This confidence of the electorate was characterized by the senator as "the dominating, winning factor, pointing towards Hoover's victory." His address, prepared for delivery late tonight, was the climax of the Bay State capital's rally which included a two-hour torchlight parade and the listening by a large audience filling the Boston arena to the radio reproduction of the republican standard bearer's speech in St. Louis.

"That is an element in the campaign which pervades the entire country," the senator continued, "and breaks across the party lines. The poise and judgment, the wide experience, Hoover's achievements in the field of economics and his service to humanity and, above all, his phenomenal record for completing any task which may be assigned to him, complex and difficult as it may be, have radiated respect and confidence among the voters."

"In the south, they do not speak of parties, but of Hoover; Hoover, executive, the man among men. The business man, the laborer and the farmer feel that he approaches the problems of today both as a student and as a doer of things, as a man who will not be driven to accept false theories, but who insists upon thoroughness and permanency as the elements of his program."

"TODAY WE MARCHED RIGHT OVER TO THE OLD HAUNTED HOUSE. WE TIPTOEED UP THE STAIRS TO THE ROOM THAT HAD THE LIGHT IN IT LAST NIGHT. WE HEARD A MOAN COME FROM THE DOOR, WHICH WAS STANDING OFF A LITTLE

"AND WHEN WE LOOKED IN, WE SAW ONE OF THE OLD TRAMPS WAS BACK AGAIN—HE WAS LYING ON A COFFIN—HE LOOKED VERY SICK. HE SAID 'IS IT YOU BOYS?' I BEEN THINKIN' YOU WOULD COME. I'M SO GLAD YOU CAME. BUT WE KEPT STILL

"AND HE SAID 'WHICH ONE OF YOU BELONGS TO THAT FARMER I STOLE THOSE HAMS FROM?' ROY STEPPED UP THE TRAMP HANDED HIM SOME DOLLAR BILLS 'GIVE THESE TO YOUR DAD. HE SAYS, 'I'M GOIN'—AND I WANT TO GO OUT FAIR AND SQUARE.

"THEN WE RAN AND TOLD DOC WATERS THERE WAS A SICK MAN IN THE EMPTY HOUSE. WHEN DOC CAME HE WAITED OUTSIDE. WHEN DOC CAME AGAIN, HE TOOK OFF HIS HAT AND TOLD US THAT POOR TRAMP HAD DIED."

"I AM SORRY I HURT THAT POOR FELLOW. FOR STEALING THOSE HAMS—IT'S TOO BAD HE DIED—BUT THE GOOD BOOK SAYS, 'THE WAY OF THE TRANS- GRESSOR IS HARD'."

RADIOING THE AIR WAVES

BY THE DIAL TWISTER.

The big radio networks tonight again will be given over almost entirely to the broadcasting of political addresses by the nominee of the democratic party and nationally known leaders of both major parties.

Governor Al Smith will speak over WSB and the N. B. C. chain at 9 o'clock from Madison Square Garden in New York city. For an hour, radio listeners will hear Governor Smith in his home city and probably the applause and cheering will be something not equalled so far in this campaign.

Then the republicans will have something to cheer about when Senator Borah talks over WSB and the N. B. C. network from Utica, N. Y. Governor Smith's home state, at 8:30 o'clock tonight.

Dr. Ray Layman Wilbur, president of Leland Stanford University, at Palo Alto, will give a republican address over WSB and the N. B. C. network at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

The other political addresses will be made over WSB at 10 o'clock tonight. It will be the democratic national committee's local program.

The other N. B. C. chain program scheduled over WSB tonight will be the Philco opera, at 7 o'clock. The tentative program is the "Red Mill." Jessica Dragonette and Colin O'More will sing the leading roles.

LAST RITES SUNDAY FOR V. E. DALLIS, LA GRANGE LEADER

LaGrange, Ga., November 2.—(Special.)—Funeral services will be held here Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock for Virgil E. Dallis, 76, who died at his home here Thursday following a lingering illness.

Mr. Dallis, who was 76 years of age, was one of the most prominent citizens of this section. He is survived by two children, Park A. Dallis, of Atlanta, and Mrs. E. S. Stallings, of LaGrange; three grandsons, Virgil Stallings and Park Dallis, Jr., and Robert V. Dallis, of LaGrange; and one granddaughter, Miss Mary Dallis, of this place. Interment will be in the local cemetery.

3 BANDITS GRAB $10,000 PAY ROLL, MAKE GETAWAY

Gas City, Ind., November 2.—(AP)—J. W. Ball, cashier of the Gas City State bank, was held up and robbed of a $10,000 pay roll today by three men who escaped in an automobile.

The cashier had just come from the postoffice, across the street from the bank, where he had obtained the pay roll money for the Illinois Glass company. As he stepped on the sidewalk in front of the bank a young man jumped out of an automobile and, pointing a gun at him, grabbed the pay roll. Two other men were in the automobile and the three drove away. All were unmasked.

TRIPLETS ARE NAMED FOR 3 CANDIDATES

Pasadena, N. J., November 2.—(AP)—There is at least one strictly non-partisan family in this municipality, it appears.

Triplets, all boys, were born to Mrs. R. R. Calvert today. They were named Herbert Hoover Calvert, Alfred Smith Calvert and Norman Thomas Calvert.

4,068,727 AUTOS MADE IN U. S. A. IN PAST 10 MONTHS

Washington, November 2.—More and more for us are stepping on the gas. The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce finds that pleasure cars and trucks produced in this country the first ten months of the year totaled 4,068,727.

DR. JENKINS DEFENDS TELEVISION PROGRESS

BY MARTIN COEDEL.

Washington, November 2.—What- ever else may be said about television, C. Francis Jenkins insists that it is coming sooner than the experts and "the dunkers" think. The Washington inventor definitely promises that he will soon be able to transmit moving figures and motion pictures taken from strip films from reception via the cooperation of a host of amateurs scattered throughout the country. He is now engaged in constructing the new transmitter and expects to have it in operation within a few months.

G. O. P., KLAN, LEAGUE PARTNERS, SAYS BLAINE

Chicago, November 2.—(AP)—Senator James J. Blaine, of Wisconsin, dealt with eight issues of the national campaign at a democratic rally here tonight.

Teapot Dome, farm relief, waterways, water power, foreign policies, education, the Volstead act and campaign contributions received attention from the progressive republican who has endorsed the candidacy of Governor Smith.

Calling attention to the report of the republican national committee on contributions, Senator Blaine declared that the total of $4,100,000 had been received from the "ways and means committee of Pennsylvania" and another $100,000 from "the republican national committee of Pennsylvania." He demanded to know why the contributors to those committees were not named and declared that a triumph of organization is backing Herbert Hoover, the republican national committee, the Anti-Saloon league and the Ku Klux Klan.

TORAL ASSUMES RESPONSIBILITY IN OREGON DEATH

San Angel, Mexico, November 2.—(AP)—Jose de Leon Toral today took full responsibility for the assassination of President-Elect Obregon. He told the jury, who held his life in their hands, that while his co-defendant, Mother Concepcion, had given him confidence and inspiration, she was entirely ignorant of the effort she produced and had no knowledge of his intended act.

Leon Toral's recital of the motives which led him to shoot General Obregon as he sat at a banquet table took more than an hour and a quarter. The first day of the trial then was adjourned to be resumed tomorrow morning.

ROBINSON EXPOSES G. O. P. FEAR OF HOOVER

BY RAYMOND Z. HENLE, Associated Press Staff Writer.

Dayton, Ohio, November 2.—(AP)—In typical Al Smith fashion, Senator Joe T. Robinson "called the roll" of republican leaders tonight in an attempt to show that Herbert Hoover was not acceptable to some republicans, particularly those who were most closely associated with the farm relief fight in congress, prior to the Kansas City convention.

"This campaign," the democratic vice presidential nominee said, "conducted under the leadership of Dr. Work, has been designed to create a fictitious personality—a Hoover endowed with magical powers and adorned by a halo. Some who are now eulogizing Mr. Hoover as a political paragon took quite a different view of his abilities before his nomination."

"Let us see what Senator Curtis, Hoover's running mate, had to say. Referring to Mr. Hoover, he declared: 'The convention cannot afford to nominate any one for whom the party will be on the defensive from the day he is named until the polls close.'"

And now let us call some Ohio statesmen. Call Senator Fess. Speaking of Mr. Hoover, he said the republican party will demand a leader whose Americanism is not in question and whose political views are not a matter of speculation."

"Call Congressman Brand, of Ohio. Here is what he said: 'Mr. Hoover has been the supreme opponent of agricultural prosperity for the past ten years. His election would mean agriculture is doomed to eight years more of misery.'"

"And here is what one of the most prominent republican women, Mrs. McCormick of Illinois, declared: 'We have not agreed on any candidate to push for the nomination after Hoover is blocked. Our whole object is to clear the field for a republican who can win.'"

Senator Robinson also "called" Senator Norbeck, of South Dakota, and Senator Nye, of North Dakota, both republicans, who were quoted by the nominee with remarks attacking Hoover. And finally he called Senator Borah, to whom he accredited the statement that Hoover did not know the existence of taxpayers in this country while he was food administrator.

Senator Robinson declared the threats of republicans "about loss of job and bread and butter" consisted of "mere bug-a-boo" which will frighten only the feeble-minded. He declared that the democratic party and its leadership stood for high wages and the conservation of all legitimate business.

THE NIGHTMARE

By GERALD MYGATT

INSTALLMENT XLII.

JIMMY COMES TO.

Bart Stoman's eyes narrowed cunningly.

"Now, Doc," he said, indicating Jimmy. "Can I have a few choice words with him?"

"If you like, but you'll have to take out his gag."

"Is it safe?"

"Absolutely."

"Could I untie him, too, untie him and stand him up and take a nice fat crack at him?"

"If you want to, Bart, you can. I don't see any point in it, but if it gives you any pleasure—why my friend, he's as helpless as a baby in his crib, and as harmless, too. He can do nothing without my express command."

"Ge, what a chance!" exulted the hawk-nosed man. He stepped over to where Jimmy sat slumped in his chair, unknotted the handkerchief that gagged his voice, untied the various cords that bound him. Jimmy's body slumped forward, slid to the floor.

"Steady there," remarked the bald-headed man. "I don't like that sort of thing, Bart. What do you want to do with him?"

"I want to make a goat out of him," Stoman snarled, his face beet red. "This is a swell joke on him. Tell him to laugh."

Jimmy sat up. He smiled widely. Then he threw back his head and laughed. He laughed more loudly. Color came into his cheeks. Still he laughed.

"Shut up," yelled the man called Doc, and like an automaton Jimmy sat quiet. "I can't stand that, Bart," he explained. "What do you want him to do next?"

"He can dance like a bear, on all fours."

Stiffly Jimmy raised himself to his hands and knees, moved clumsily about.

"Now dance like a monkey," Stoman shouted. "Scratch yourself and chatter with your lips. Jimmy scratched himself and chattered.

"Now, you half-baked ass, kneel down and lick the toe of my shoe. He held it out in invitation. Jimmy bent down.

What happened next happened so quickly that only the result was visible. The result was a whirl of legs in the air, the heavy figure of the hawk-nosed man bumping and slithering across the room.

Jimmy Kirkin leaped to his feet, his eyes blazing fire.

"Do you think I watched your movie show?" he challenged.

At the same instant he leaped, swung with all his force, planted his right fist squarely upon the point of the bald-headed man's jaw. The bald-headed man toppled, dropped to the floor.

"You'll make a goat out of me, will you?" Jimmy clamored wildly. "You cheap sport, you! Well, here's once where I outwitted you. I had brains enough to keep my eyes closed and play dead afterward."

He leaped, cat fashion, fell upon the hawk-nosed man just as he was struggling to rise, just as he was clumsily dragging a short automatic pistol from his hip pocket. Jimmy grabbed the pistol, seized it by the barrel, swept the butt downward with all his strength. The hawk-nosed man lay very still.

Next Jimmy whirled swiftly, jumped upon the bald-headed man just as he, too, was attempting to rise. "Sorry to do this," he said grimly.

Now he stepped over to Patricia, whipped her gag and cords away, straightened her head, tilted it back, seemed to gauge his two thumbs into her eyes.

"Super-orbital pressure!" he scoffed. "The damn fool! He might as well have given me a diagram and a printed set of rules. As if the Marxes didn't teach first aid." He bore down more heavily.

"Ooh!" cried Patricia weakly. "You're hurting my eyes." "It's only me," said Jimmy, and without exactly thinking about it he leaned down and kissed her, only once, but gently.

"O, Jimmy—thank God—please—tell me."

"Shut up," he muttered tersely. "Can you stand up? Try! Tell you later. Here grab my hand. Easy now—you're all right. Just let's get out of this—quick!"

He found the handle of the brick doorway, flung the heavy panel wide open—and found himself looking straight into the muzzle of a pistol. Behind the pistol stood a pallid little man wearing a gaudily banded, turned down Panama hat. In the background were other men, perhaps five or six.

"Were you planning on going anywhere, Mr. Kirkin?" the pallid man asked cordially.

Jimmy opened his mouth uncertainly, closed it without saying a word. He felt Patricia's icy fingers twining themselves fiercely about his own. Was it her hand that was trembling, or his, or both? Instinctively he must have made a motion forward, for a man leaped, caught his wrist sharply, held it fast in a grip like that of a vise.

"There's no need for fireworks," the pallid man observed dryly.

"Seems not," said Jimmy, bitterly. "Well—you've got us."

"That's right," the other agreed amiably. "We've got you—and just about in time. I'll tell the bleary-eyed world." He turned crisply to one of the men behind him. "Ed, take charge of these two before they get nuts. Hogan, Murphy, Levitsky—in with me."

He stepped through the open brick doorway. Then he halted. His jaw dropped. For a moment he peered at what he saw, incredulous, agape.

"Take a look, Ed," he invited, lifting his almost invisible eyebrows. "Seems our friend, Kirkin here, has done a good job."

"Not me," Jimmy mumbled. "I only wish I had. I just put two of them to sleep. The rest—ask your friend, the Doc, to give you a demonstration when he comes out. It's great. Don't miss it." He eyed his captors with sarcasm.

The hawk-nosed man was staggering drunkenly to his feet. He steadied himself, seeming to collect his wits. Then with a rush came bursting out toward them.

"Stop them," he bellowed. "Stop them!"

The pallid little man caught him by the arm.

"We've stopped them," he stated in a matter-of-fact tone. "Here they are, Bart. Snap out of it!"

The hawk-nosed man grimaced in surprise.

"Joe? Dopey Joe? Do you mean to say—why, how on earth—"

"That's me," said the little man with a grin.

"Yes, yes, but who are these—these?" The hawk-nosed man gestured vacantly.

"These, you mean? These are regular guys, Bart—entirely regular. Let me make you acquainted with my friends, Ed Hammis, Duck Murphy, Slim Hogan, Two-Gun Weatherill and Battling Moe Levitsky. O, yeh—Babe Kashoorian in the corner. He never stands in the crowd, Babe don't. Has to stand off to get room. You see, Bart, Babe shoots from the hip. Good he is in that. Him and me was in the Marines together."

"But you never were—"

"O, yes, I was! What I say and what I do is sometimes a little different, Bart. Him and me was at Chateau Thierry—place you cheered for and didn't give a damn about. Anyway, he can shoot—get me!"

The hawk-nosed man backed a question: "Are you stowed again, Joe?"

"I might be, the way I feel, Bart. Only it seems I ain't. It seems I'm going to clap a brave hand on your right shoulder, Bart—left shoulder if you turn that way—and place you under arrest, you sweet-smelling son of a bloodhound, in the name of the people of the state of New York."

Bart Stoman drew back. "You're stowed," he faltered.

"O, am I? Maybe so and maybe not, and, if I am, good luck to me and a bad job done with it!" His voice hardened.

"It would seem, Bart Stoman, that I've been shadowing you for six years—six, count 'em, six. I had it on you and Doc, all right—milk and honey—but I wanted the Doc, too. The department has been layin' for you three a long time, Bart—for you, the guy who never misses a trick. Only you missed your first trick and forgot it, early in the game—and your first trick was me. Remember when you took me in, Bart? You wasn't so smart then—and I ain't quite persuaded you're so very smart now. Crooks always leave holes, and don't you forget it!" He smiled acidly. "We got you and Queenie and the Doc for life, Bart—fifty years for kidnaping and manslaughter and assault and about six other counts. The only guy I'm sorry for is Jake. Jake's on the square. Misguided but square. Maybe he'll only get five years."

Jimmy was staring, open eyed. So was Patricia.

The hawk-nosed man laughed loudly. "You always were a joker, Joe," he said uncertainly.

"Yeh," commented the little man, "and I hope I always will be. Bein' a joker keeps you young. You never were a joker were you, Bart?"

He reached behind him and brought his hands forward with a metallic gleam. He bit out two words: "Brace—"

"But Joe, Joe—"

"O, shut up! Here, give me your wrists. No—back of you, you boob. Here, quit that wringing act. I'll know you back off—and I can. My time's valuable. So's the time of the people of the state of New York. Something that reflected light—clerk sharp!"

"How do they fell?" asked the pallid man mercilessly.

He gestured with his thumb.

"In there, you flat feet," he commanded, and laughed happily. "The commissioner's waiting in his office and the wagon's outside. Snap the bracelets on 'em and trot 'em out."

Now he turned to Jimmy. "Sorry for all this talk," he said. "Must ball you up. May seem like a dirty trick to you, but we had to get 'em raw—see? With the goods—see? Well, they're in for life. We'll get you two as witnesses later, but that won't be for three, four days. What say—want to take Miss Shane home?"

Jimmy said yes.

"Well, take her. You two are free as air. Wait a minute! This guy Stoman's car is around the corner in a garage. Good car, you can bet on it. I'll show you where it is. Suppose you drive her home in that?"

"Suits me," said Jimmy. "Listen—" "To hell with it. I'll answer all your questions day after tomorrow."

"But listen," persisted Jimmy.

"Yeh?"

"We're going to be married. Miss Shane and I. Listen—will you—will you be my best man, Joe? Is that your name—Joe?"

"That's my name—Joe Small, not Schmaltz. In the department for 18 years. Sure I'll be best man. Appreciate the compliment."

"It's not a compliment," said Jimmy. "It's a fact."

"Shoot you dice for it," said the little man with a grin. "Listen—I got to turn these guys in and prefer charges. You know; three, four hours yet."

"You will not, soldier. You'll take this lady and you'll drive her out to Far Harbor. You two rate a ride in a car alone, seems to me. But God help you if you get married before I get there. I'll be out on the first train."

"Suits me," said Jimmy for the second time. "Only don't be too long. Joe." Abruptly his face grew grave.

"Holy smoke!" he remarked. "I haven't even asked you, Pat, whether you'd marry me or whether you wouldn't. I'm poor—no money—just me."

Patricia looked up at him. In doing so she unconsciously lifted a pair of misty eyes fringed above and below with those delicate dark lashes which are the utterly unjust birthright of certain fair-haired persons whose ancestors once called themselves Celts.

"Will I?" she whispered.

And her whisper was an assertion, not a question.

The lights of the long, lean car that once had belonged to L. Barton Stoman swept fitfully ahead along a white shell road.

Patricia cuddled close to Jimmy's side. She giggled a little.

"Anything the matter with my driving?" asked Jimmy with mock severity.

"Not a thing—only I just let you pass the corner that takes us into Far Harbor."

"Let's turn around then," said Jimmy, and put on the brakes.

"No, no," she said a soft hand upon his arm. "Go ahead. Go ahead till I tell you to stop."

"Turn around?" asked Jimmy.

"No, gooser. We go about a quarter of a mile beyond where you and I were lugged into the car last night, and the road bends to the right. Where it bends to the left again we pull up—see? And then we get out and walk toward the beach, maybe a quarter mile."

"Where does that get us," said Jimmy. "To our doom?"

"Naturally, you idiot," answered Patricia. "Don't you think it would be nice of me to say yes to you before I marry you? Look, Jimmy," she caught his hand, "see that glow over there across the water? That's the moon. It's almost an hour later than last night, but it's the same moon. Wait, wait, Jimmy! This is the place. Stop! Now help me out!"

Total bond sales (par value), $10,014,000.

New York, November 2.—(AP)—Selective buying, especially of rails, produced an improvement of bond market prices after early heaviness today...

There was some demand also for a few oils and utilities, but the general list was subjected to selling pressure which bespeaks the seriousness with which professional investors regarded the $134,000,000 increase in brokers' loans.

Prices movements reflected the regular trading of stocks, but though price changes were not always parallel. Buying was encouraged by easier money conditions, believed to be due in great part to temporary excess bond reserves.

Baltimore and Ohio 4s, Illinois Central 4s, Southern Railway 4s, Island 4s with gains of 1 to more than 2 points led the stronger railroad issues to higher ground.

Rocky Mountain 5-1/2s with a gain of more than 5 points on a small turnover, and Public Service of New Jersey 4-1/2s, which improved fractionally, supplied the strength for the utility group.

Some oils, such as Colton Oil 6s, Standard of New Jersey 5s, and Transcontinental Oil 6-1/2s made small gains, but others, including the recently strong Barnsdall 6s, sold off nearly a point.

Continental Corporation 6s, International Match 5s, Kelly-Springfield 4s, Tires 4s, which touched a new top at 110, U. S. Rubber 5s, Dodge Brothers 4s, and Anglo-American Nitrate 7s were among the stronger industrials.

The foreign list was active, but irregular, while United States government obligations were inclined to heaviness.

REV. C. C. BUCHANAN DIES OF INJURIES

Commander of South Georgia U. C. V. Victim of Fall.

Waycross, Ga., November 2.—(AP)—Rev. Christopher C. Buchanan, 57, commander of the South Georgia United Confederate Veterans, aged member of one of the most distinguished families of Georgia, died at his home here today as a result of injuries sustained 10 days ago when he fell from a scaffold in the back yard of his home.

Mr. Buchanan suffered a broken hip and a broken arm in the fall and was badly bruised and shaken up. He had a proud record of service with the Confederate army, having enlisted in the early days of the war between the states as a private, joining from Pierce county. He fought in every battle in which his command was engaged during the four years of conflict, and was never injured. He is said to have missed roll call but three days during the entire war, then because of illness, and until the time of his death he could call, from memory, the roster of his beloved company. For a number of years he has served as commander of the local post of Confederate veterans.

He was a local preacher in the Methodist church, serving in this capacity for approximately 40 years. He was charter member of the Trinity Methodist church of Waycross, one of its most loyal and valuable members.

Funeral services for William Butler Hudson, 52, who died Thursday afternoon at his home of his sister, Mrs. Lois H. Hartley, of 1138 Highland avenue, will be conducted at 10 o'clock Sunday morning at the chapel of H. M. Patterson and Son, The Rev. Malcolm McKay and J. Russell Mitchell will be in charge and burial will be in the Griffin cemetery.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. E. B. Hudson; four sisters, Mrs. Mary Lett and Mrs. B. Davis, of Atlanta; Mrs. C. H. Easton, of Louisville, Ky.; and Mrs. Frank Bryan, of Nettleton, Miss. He was married to Mrs. Hudson, of Bluefield, W. Va.

Howey Says Hoover Will Carry Florida By 38,000 Majority

Miami, Fla., November 2.—(AP)—Predicting a sweeping republican victory in Florida, W. J. Howey, candidate for governor, in a speech here last night, said he expected to be elected by a majority of 38,000, and he believed Hoover would carry Florida by 38,000 votes. Mr. Howey said the only way he could be defeated for governor would be by being "outraged out," and he offered a reward of $2,000 for conviction of anyone guilty of election fraud.
